

WESTERLY WORKMEN OVERCOME

Suffer from Effects of Gas while Cleaning Purifier—Two Fires Wednesday Morning—Republican Caucus this Afternoon—Four-Team Rhode Island-Connecticut League to Open Season May 27.

There was sharp maneuvering at the meeting of the republican town committee when the final touches were put to the political slates that will be presented at the caucus action. The political slates were divided, and ways that are dark and tricky that are in vogue in the proceedings. One of the most popular of citizens was chosen by the one side to placate a member of the present town council, but the other side worked the game so adroitly that he could not be utilized. He was then picked up, by the other side, and substituted for a councilman who was not supposed to have any opposition in the committee. The slate for the town council as made up by the committee is as follows: For the town council, William L. Clarke, Albert H. Langworthy, Maurice W. Flynn, C. Clarence Maxson, William C. Culley, Horace E. Burdick, and John T. Edmunds.

The committee will also recommend the renomination of the rest of the present town officers. There was a lively contest in committee in regard to the renomination of Dr. Russell B. Smith as a member of the school committee for three years. The doctor was indifferent as to the result, but if he could be of service in that department would consent to serve, but would make no effort for renomination. Miss Helen Segar was strongly advocated as the successor of Dr. Smith and when the vote of the committee was counted she received only one less vote than the doctor.

It is believed that there will be no opposition by committeemen in the caucus when nominations are presented by the chairman of the town committee.

There have been instances where the recommendations of the town committee in regard to nominations have been rejected in caucus, and surface indications are that the town committee will not receive the approval of a majority of freemen assembled in caucus.

Fire alarm was sent in just before eleven o'clock, Wednesday morning, from box 75. No alarm had been long called when in came alarm from box 71, both of which are located in the Italian section of the town, and both for a single fire in the houses at the corner of Pond and Pierce streets, owned by Joseph Guarino, and occupied in part by a saloon and barbers shop and the Guarino tenement. The fire started in the chimney in the kitchen close to the range, in the rear of the saloon, and spread rapidly to the living apartment on the next floor before it was discovered.

An alarm was immediately sent in from box 75, at Canal and Pond streets, but the response was so slow that a second alarm was sent in from box 75, at Canal and Pond streets. The house is a wooden frame story and a half structure, and the rear portion was considerably burned, causing a loss of perhaps $500, which is insurance covered.

Three Italians engaged in cleaning the purifier at the plant of the Westerly Light and Power company were overcome by gas fumes while at work Wednesday morning and were resuscitated with difficulty. The men were working vigorously and without any evidence of ill effect when they suddenly toppled over in a semi-unconscious condition. Dr. M. H. Scamblis responded to a call and gave the men attention.

Recovering from the direct effects of the gases, the men were enabled to stand, but were not able to walk steadily until nearly an hour had elapsed. They then walked to their homes and were excused from work for the balance of the day.

The Twilight Baseball league held a meeting for reorganization for the season of 1911, and elected these officers: Robert Mitchell, president; James McGavin, vice president; Frank Friend, secretary; Benjamin Spang, treasurer. The league will be composed of these teams, and are composed of the main of clerks, the games being played at twilight, after the day's work is done. The Opius, East-chickies Segar, and the West-chickies and Cracksjacks. The Opius and Segar are of last season have some out of existence.

Robert Bridge's drama in verse, Achilles in Scyros, was presented in the large study hall of the Rhode Island state normal school, Tuesday evening, before an audience of about seven hundred persons being taken by students. Miss Jessie Marion Standish, of Westerly, played the role of Ulysses, and was the only young lady from here to participate. There was a chorus of Scyrian maidens. The normal school orchestra was assisted by the Providence high school orchestra. The girls in the play were in classic garb and the production was well staged and admirably acted.

There is likelihood of lively contests at the republican caucus this afternoon and evening, and it has been determined by the town committee to open the caucus at four in the afternoon and to have it remain open until eight in the evening, and later if the caucus so orders. The Italian Republican club has been holding private sessions, but has made no demands for recognition from the town committee, so it is inferred that the caucus is in season. A year ago a strong effort was made by the Italian voters to get representation on the town council, and three hours were required before the matter was adversely decided.

It has been definitely decided that the Rhode Island-Connecticut Baseball league will be composed of four teams in the season open May 27. The teams will be: Westerly, Manager Alexander Altkin; Pawtucket, Manager George Grogan; Stonington, Manager W. Fred Wilcox; Mystic, Manager George W. Tingley. A schedule was adopted and it was voted that the first round of players be held with Dr. John M. O'Connell, president, by Wednesday, May 24, and that the $10 forfeit be posted by each club at the same time.

Inasmuch as the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad company has announced to the people of Westerly, through Director Edwin Miller, that the sum of $200,000 is to be expended in improvements in Westerly, which eliminates the canal street grade crossing, everything concerning the railroad is not without local interest. The following shows the length of lines and parts of lines which the block system is used:

The automatic block signals are used on 17.5 single track, 34.5 double track, 9.2 four track, a total of 271.7 miles of road and 452.7 miles of track. Non-automatic block signals are used on 14.3 single track, 28.6 double track and 75.8 four track, a total of 438.8 miles of road, 884.9 miles of track. Total automatic and non-automatic is 401.5 miles of road and 1,431 miles of track. Total passenger lines operated, 1,236.4 miles of road and 2,861.1 miles of track. Percentage block signal (miles of track) 47.7.

The New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad company uses the expanded disc on 17.1 miles of road and 32.3 miles of track; the enclosed disc on 4.7 miles of road and 14.4 miles of track; the semaphore with electric motor on 28.9 miles of road and 55 miles of track. The normal clear miles of track 502.7 with no normal danger. The total automatic signals are 27.7 miles of road, 52.7 miles of track. The number of block sections is 331. Telegraph is used in the main in connection with the system, and in addition there are track circuit stations and two miles of continuous track circuit and six miles of electric train staff service. The company has 1379 telegraph miles and 184 telephone miles of road. These figures are official, being taken from a pamphlet just issued by the Interstate Commerce commission. In table form, showing the block signals of the railroads of the United States.

Local Laocenes.
James N. Steward of New London was a visitor in Westerly Wednesday. Owen Lovejoy, chairman of the national child labor committee, discussed the child labor problem before an appreciative audience in the assembly hall, Memorial building, Wednesday afternoon.

Winsted.—The Business Men's association at its last meeting decided that a new depot, improved highways and telegraphic service, additional water supply, garbage collection system and a sewer system.

20 YEARS' PSORIASIS CURED

"I have been afflicted for twenty years with a disease, called by M. D.'s psoriasis, and it extended until it covered my entire person in the form of dry scales. Every morning there would be a shower of scales taken from my bed. At last I had but a short time to live. I earnestly prayed to die. Checked through the skin all over my back, across my ribs, arms, hands, feet, face, neck, throat, and head, I came off, finger-nails dead and hard as a bone; half dead, dry and hollow as a straw. My God, how I did suffer. My sister had a small part of a box of Cuticura in the house. She said, 'Give it up. We will try Cuticura.' Some was applied on one hand and the other. The next day the terrible burning sensation from the world go. They immediately got Cuticura Resolvent Ointment and Soap. Result: returned to my home in just six weeks and my skin as smooth as the back of a hand. I am now 40 years old and have never suffered from the disease since. It is published because of the permanency of the cure. On April 25, 1910, Mr. Carpenter wrote from his present home, 610 Walnut St., St. Louis, Mo.: 'I have never suffered from the disease and although many years have passed I have not forgotten the terrible suffering I endured before using the Cuticura Remedy.'"
